Why is buying local a responsible choice?

In these times of profound political, climatic and economic turmoil, buying local is the way to go. Here's an overview of the key factors illustrating why this approach to consumption is a responsible one.

For consumers, buying local is a concrete step toward protecting the environment because products travel less and greenhouse gas emissions are reduced. Additionally, locally produced items generally create less packaging waste. Economically speaking, buying from local suppliers supports these businesses in their mission while promoting the creation and retention of well-paying jobs that comply with domestic human rights standards.

For business leaders, sourcing from local suppliers brings numerous benefits. These close business relationships foster stable partnerships and encourage collaborative engagement. This isn't always the case with suppliers located on the other side of the world and operating in vastly different time zones. Plus, when local businesses support one another, the economic benefits extend to the entire community.

Small and medium-sized businesses that prioritize buying locally and promote it in their advertising often see their reputation improve among consumers with similar values. Job seekers are also drawn to businesses known for taking such an ethical approach to their community. Given the labor challenges currently affecting many industries, this is a factor that shouldn't be overlooked.

Want to take a responsible step for the good of your community and the planet as a whole? Start buying local today.

September is Prostate Cancer Awareness Month

FIGHTING PROSTATE CANCER: Essential information

September marks Prostate Cancer Awareness Month. Prostate cancer remains one of the leading causes of cancer deaths among men in the U.S. But did you know that this disease can be entirely curable under certain circumstances, especially when it's detected early enough? With that in mind, it's crucial for men to be informed and take a preventive approach.

DOCUMENTED RISKS

Starting at the age of 50, the risk of developing prostate cancer begins to increase. Research shows that certain factors can contribute significantly to this risk. Your chances are higher if you:

- Have a family history of prostate cancer
- Are overweight or obese
- Are taller than average
- Have African or Caribbean ethnicity

Certain lifestyle habits, such as smoking, can increase your risk, as can inherited genetic mutations. Men, do any of these factors apply to you? Have you noticed any symptoms, such as blood in the urine or changes in your bladder habits? If so, consult your doctor right away.

HELPFUL RESOURCES

Across the country, organizations offer resources like screening information, webinars and support groups, many of which are free of charge. Your local health-care facilities can typically provide access to these tools, too. Simply gaining a better understanding of this disease, its symptoms and prevention guidelines could spare you a lot of trouble and worry. It may even save your life.

During Prostate Cancer Awareness Month, get informed and spread the word. To learn more online, visit the American Cancer Society (www.cancer.org) and the Prostate Cancer Foundation (www.pcf.org).

Here's a Tip

by JoAnn Derson

When Christmas rolls around and you need to protect the bow for a present, place it in a zip-top sandwich bag, close partway, fill with air and seal. The bow will make it to your destination uncrushed, and you can stick it on at the last minute.

"One part warm water and three parts baking soda makes a great paste for removing rust spots. Simply use an old toothbrush in a circular motion to smear in the paste and wipe away rust." -- C.B. in Alaska

Recycling one glass bottle saves enough electricity to light a 100-watt bulb for four hours.

"My pup loves to ride in the car, and my car seats love his hair, too. Seems like it's impossible to get out! A vacuum didn't work, so my neighbor suggested I use dish gloves. Just put a latex rubber glove on your hand and wipe over seats. A very lightly damp sponge can work as well." -- P.I. in Washington

Anna Baryshnikov, the 34-year-old daughter of ballet/movie star Mikhail Baryshnikov and American dancer/video journalist Lisa Rinehart, has her own budding career. She starred in the psychological thriller "Sender," co-starring Jamie Lee Curtis, which screened at SXSW in March. She followed this up with the dark rom-com "The Drama" co-starring Zendaya and Robert Pattinson, which came and went in April. Next, she'll co-star with Mira Sorvino, Lisa Kudrow, Alan Cumming, and Keegan-Michael Key in "Romy and Michele 2," which is due in 2027. The original 1997 film cost $20 million but only grossed $29.2 million.

Spider-Man Tom Holland and Zendaya allegedly tied the knot just before the end of this past year. They've both been working nonstop together in "Spider-Man: Brand New Day" and "The Odyssey," in addition to Zendaya filming "Dune: Part Three" and "Shrek 5."

"The Odyssey" has already grossed more than $1 billion, but "Brand New Day" accomplished this during the first weekend that it hit big screens. Writers are already fashioning the script for "Spider-Man 5," while the newlyweds take a much-needed planned break. However, Holland's been telling the press that he'll keep doing "Spider-Man" movies for as long as they'll have him!

Jaafar Jackson, who blew everyone away as Michael Jackson (to the tune of $1 billion), is set to star with "Bad Boy" (and famous slapper) Will Smith and AnnaSophia Robb in Amazon MGM Studios' "Supermax." In the film, Smith and Robb try to solve a seemingly impossible murder in a maximum security prison.

Grandparents' Day

We love
Grandma and Grandpa!

The important role of grandparents!

Celebrated around the world, Grandparents' Day serves as a reminder of the vital role that grandmothers and grandfathers play in the lives of their grandchildren and the rest of the family. This day is also an opportunity to express your respect and gratitude to these special people in your life.

Show your appreciation to your grandparents or those of your children. You might even be a grandparent yourself. There are plenty of ways to join in the fun.

- Book a table at a restaurant for a brunch or a cozy dinner.
- Invite your loved ones to enjoy a meal, play board games or share stories, the activity doesn't matter as long as you're spending quality time together.
- A bouquet of flowers, a house plant, chocolates, jewelry, a spa package or tickets to a show — there are so many tangible ways you can express your love and appreciation.
- Create beautiful memories by planning a professional photo shoot, either in a studio or outdoors.
- Organize an intergenerational activity, such as reading, crafts or cooking, at school or in your workplace.

On September 13, let's all say a well-deserved THANK YOU to grandparents everywhere!

New clinical trials at the VA

The VA has started two important trials.

The first trial, titled "Psilocybin Intervention for Veterans Overcoming Treatment-Resistant Depression," is to determine the effectiveness as well as the safety of a compound that's used to treat depression and post-traumatic stress disorder: psilocybin.

Psilocybin is a mushroom, more commonly known as "magic mushrooms," that converts to psilocin in the body, altering brain activity. Its use as a solution to mental health conditions that haven't responded to previous treatment is hoped to bring relief to sufferers.

The trial will compare two different dosages and study how they affect depression levels, PTSD and side effects. They will be held at five different VA locations: Birmingham VA Health Care System, Tuscaloosa VA Medical Center, VA Portland (Oregon) Health Care System, Corporal Michael J. Crescenz VA Medical Center and VA Puget Sound Health Care System.

The other new trial will take a diabetes drug, semaglutide, a GLP-1 receptor agonist, and explore its use as treatment for alcohol use disorder. Semaglutide appears to affect the rewards part of the brain. Researchers took their clues from a prior study that concluded that GLP-1 helped with alcohol, cannabis, cocaine, nicotine and opioid use disorders, following study participants for up to three years.

There are over 400,000 veterans who've been diagnosed with alcohol use disorder, and GLP-1 has been shown to reduce the rate of emergency hospital visits, hospitalizations and other adverse outcomes. The goal of the trial is to determine whether it can reduce alcohol use disorder in veterans.

The study ("Cessation or Reduction of Alcohol Consumption in Veterans") will be held at 18 VA medical centers starting with an initial enrollment of 600 veterans. Participants will either receive a placebo or semaglutide shot every week for 24 weeks while researchers track the outcomes.

To learn about participating in either trial, contact your nearest VA medical center or look for the trial by name at ClinicalTrials.gov.

Q: Is "The Witcher" coming back for another season, and if so, will Henry Cavill ever be back? -- P.T.

A: Yes, the fifth season of the Netflix series "The Witcher" will be back in 2027, but it's slated to be its final one. Henry Cavill starred as Geralt of Rivia for three seasons before choosing to leave the series.

According to several sources, including TV Insider, Cavill was a big fan of the books by Polish author Andrzej Sapkowski and didn't like the direction in which the TV series was going.

Liam Hemsworth of "The Hunger Games" franchise was subsequently chosen to carry Geralt's sword and will resume the role in the final season as well.

Q: Is Johnny Depp making a comeback anytime soon? I haven't seen him in anything since all the bad publicity he had with his ex-wife. -- S.T.

A: It's been four years since the defamation trial between Johnny Depp and Amber Heard, but his career has never regained the heights that it achieved in the early 2000s. He portrayed King Louis XV in the French historical film "Jeanne du Barry" back in 2023, and his future has been looking brighter since. He's starring in the action thriller "Day Drinker" with Oscar winner Penelope Cruz ("Vicky Cristina Barcelona"), which is set for a March 2027 release. This November, he'll play the title character in the holiday film "Ebenezer."

When will salads be safe to eat?

I'll be the first to admit that when I recently strolled through the vegetable aisles at the store, trying to decide what to buy, my overriding feeling was one of concern.

A show of hands: How many have avoided salad products for several weeks now? Between iceberg lettuce causing a massive cyclospora parasite outbreak because the defective product was sent to retailers and restaurants, we also have jalapeno peppers and cucumbers with salmonella.

They say (they, being the experts) that while we should avoid bagged salads, it's OK to eat whole head lettuce as long as we throw away the outer two or three leaves and then wash the rest under running water.

For right now, I'm going to pass. Those same experts concede that completely washing cyclospora off lettuce leaves is very difficult. Buying from your local farmers markets might be the best bet right now, until this cyclospora outbreak goes away.

Listeria has surfaced, with the producer voluntarily expanding its own recall, and the list of potential bagged items affected is long: green beans, bell peppers, yellow and zucchini squash, and cucumbers. The produce was sold at a wide variety of retailers across many states.

But it's not only salads that are a problem right now.

There are the 1.5 million dozen eggs contaminated with salmonella and sold under different brand names.

And we have organic blueberries with E. coli.

And pistachio nut butter, made in Italy and sold by a big box store, that's contaminated with salmonella.

Our best bet: Sign up for email alerts that will tell us quickly what foods are being recalled. Start with the FDA (www.fda.gov/food), and include alerts from the USDA (www.fsis.usda.gov/recalls) and FoodSafety (www.foodsafety.gov). Consumer Reports (www.consumerreports.org) will send phone alerts for food recalls if you sign up. Put "food safety alerts" in the search box.

Environmental allergies affect pets and people

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: The vet says my dog "Wyatt" has hay fever and should be kept inside the house when pollen counts are high. She also says my cat "Snowball" is allergic to something inside the house. Does that mean she has to stay outside? Sign me -- Confused in Crystal Lake, Illinois

DEAR CONFUSED: Dealing with pet allergies can be frustrating and confusing. Allergic reactions caused by pollen, dust and other things in the environment (known as atopic dermatitis) are more common in pets than many owners realize. But they can be managed with a veterinarian's help.

Symptoms of hay fever and other environmental allergies can include frequent sneezing; irritated, runny, itchy eyes; a runny nose; scratching much more than usual; and even a rash on the paws or face. Dogs may frantically lick between their paws to ease the itching. Excess scratching can cause sores and hot spots on a pet's skin, which can get infected.

Vets diagnose atopic dermatitis by its symptoms and common factors, like the time of year they occur. You can help with this by writing down everything you notice about your pet, including symptoms, behavior and their daily activities.

They'll create a treatment plan based on the severity of symptoms. Steroids may be prescribed short-term to reduce inflammation. Antibiotics or antifungals will clear any secondary infections caused by scratching and chewing. Longer-term treatment may include allergy shots (hyposensitization, a type of immunotherapy), medication to reduce immune response and omega-3 supplements. These can all take a few months to be effective, so your pets may need additional treatment for acute symptoms in the interim.

The Quiet Luxury of a Desert Morning

In the West Valley, summer teaches us to appreciate the day's earliest hours. Before the sun brightens the mountains and the afternoon heat settles in, there is a brief, beautiful window made for living well.

A desert morning might begin with coffee on the patio, when the air is still cool and hummingbirds dart among flowering shrubs. It is an ideal time for a walk, a round of golf, or a few unhurried laps in the pool. Even 20 minutes outdoors can offer a welcome sense of calm before phones ring, appointments begin, and the wider world demands attention.

These mornings also invite small rituals. Cut fresh citrus for breakfast. Read the newspaper beside an open door. Tend a container garden of basil, mint, or rosemary. Call a friend and arrange an early lunch somewhere new. None of these pleasures is extravagant, yet together they create something increasingly valuable: a day that begins on your own terms.

For longtime Valley residents, rising early is partly practical. But it can also become a seasonal philosophy—an invitation to notice the changing color of the sky, the silhouette of a palm, or the fragrance of rain lingering after a monsoon.

Luxury is often defined by what we acquire. Perhaps its truest form is having the time, health, and wisdom to savor an ordinary morning before the rest of the city awakens.

Make smart use of a mini compost bin

Sorting food scraps is a simple, eco-friendly habit that anyone can do. It's even easier if you have a mini compost bin in your kitchen. A mini compost bin is used to collect kitchen scraps indoors or break down small amounts of organic waste in tight spaces like balconies and patios. Here's how to use yours for maximum effectiveness.

PLACE IT IN A STRATEGIC SPOT

To ensure it's used often, keep it on the countertop and in plain sight where everyone in the household can see it. You can also put it under the sink or near the trash bin, where it fits seamlessly into your cleaning routine.

EFFECTIVELY PREVENT ODORS

A little baking soda at the bottom of the bin, and you're all set. Clean it with water and white vinegar every time you empty it. Finally, keep a small container in the freezer for stronger-smelling compost materials: it's practical and effective.

Every gesture counts toward reducing your environmental footprint.
